

Bolidt is the best player

Let's play! Music to the ears of children, but to Yalp's too. In the most innovative and interactive ways, Yalp knows how to keep the bodies of Holland's inhabitants moving: those of children, adults and seniors. The originally Finnish company is not afraid to sweat its guts out. It develops and innovates, gives advice, secures safety and both designing, production and installation are managed internally. Reliable, qualitative and endless, because Yalp will manufacture anything as long as 'having fun with playful exercises' is applicable. Sports fields, playgrounds, interactive sound games, street furniture, protective under layers and computer controlled exercises. Yalp inspires everybody to move and when it comes to customer's satisfaction all hands can be thrown in the air to give Yalp an applause. An overall score of 7.9 (above the average of 7.4) is one to jump up and down for. According to Yalp's customers the account managers as well as the application teams are worth a score of 8.4 (out of 10.0)!

With 'Let's play' as its corporate slogan, Yalp is using no more than two words to explain what should be the key to exercising: play and fun. To have this represented by the atmosphere in the office building in Goor, Yalp asked artist Lucretia Kuijpers to create a very playful floor design for the ground floor. Very successful, but then it was time for something

Yalp does not know the first thing about: the implementation of it. Progressive and smart as the company is, Yalp decided to work with the only worldwide known floor specialist that has 'no limits' in flooring systems. Bolidt is able to translate any thinkable design into a floor finish and thinks along during the whole process thanks to decades of experience. Bolidt also manages development, production, sales and application internally as well as research and advice. So Yalp and Bolidt are cast in the same mould, that is promising. But back to the extraordinary floor design. Guided by bright and contrasting colours the playful design has been brought to life in a Bolidtop® 525, completed with lyrics and deliberately created curved lines that express movement. By means of the seamless unceasing Bolidtop® floor finish the separated entrance, canteen, meeting room and presentation room are joined together.

If you would ask us, Yalp's office space is now entitled to a score of 8.4 too!
